

You have been challenged to participate in a classroom debate or create a three page (900 word) persuasive essay. To be successful in this activity and achieve a satisfactory grade you should observe the following guidelines and/recommendations:

For the debate:

Gather and utilize factual evidence that supports your position.

Reference your sources as you present your argument (“According to X it has been found that...”).

Pro side will begin with an opening statement such as “In this debate our position is true because of A, B and C” (As this is an opening statement specific details are not included - these details are left to the topic presenters). Con side will then offer their opening statement (2-5minutes each).

1. _____
(opening and closing presenter)

Pro side then offers their first presentation of a specific detail that supports their position. Sides alternate until all presenters have had an opportunity to share their ideas. (2-5minutes each)

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Both sides will be give time (5-10 minutes) to prepare rebuttal arguments.

Con side begins by offering a rebuttal to each argument (to the best of their ability for 2-5minutes each) in an effort to refute (disprove) the opposing team’s statements. The rebuttal presenters should actively take notes as the opposing team presents.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Con side offers a closing statement in the form of a reiteration of the opening statement (“We believe our position to be true because of A, B and C.

For the paper:

You may choose any of the topics listed on the debate topic information sheet. Create a three page (900 word) persuasive essay that clearly defines an affirmative, negative or equally balanced (50/50) argument that supports your position(s) with factual evidence.

You may include your opinion, however, the majority of the paper should be supported by reverencing factual information gathered from reputable resources (i.e. message boards on the Internet are not a reputable source of information).

Additional Note:

As a final note, you must (for both options) include the financial or opportunity cost(s) and/or tradeoffs associated with accepting your position.

Final Note: Failure to adhere to these guidelines will result in a reduced grade.
